Marshals Again Put Ring Around Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Federal authorities have re-established a barricade around Wounded Knee to shut off the flow of supplies to militant Indians who have occupied the village for two weeks.

The Justice Department said Monday the roadblocks—manned by 300 federal marshals, FBI agents and Bureau of Indian Affairs police—were set up again because the Indians used the free access to the tiny village to replenish ammunition and weapons.

Wayne Colburn, chief of the U.S. marshals brought into the Pine Ridge Reservation, told newsmen the cutoff of supplies to Indians would deprive them of all normal comforts.

"I'm sure as hell planning on changing their life-style," he said. "We're going to be more strict. This will be a tighter, more strategic blockade than the last one."

Federal roadblocks around the village had been taken down Saturday. But FBI agent Curtis Fitzgerald of Chicago was shot in the right arm during an exchange of gunfire Sunday, and the barricades went back up Monday.

Colburn said he hopes a second encirclement of the village will prevent reinforcements from slipping past federal agents and joining the entrenched Indians. He estimated 150 persons moved into Wounded Knee during the weekend, bringing the occupation force in the hamlet to about 300.

There were no reports of gunfire after dark on Monday. There had been sporadic gunfire almost nightly since the Feb. 27 takeover.

The confrontation did not appear close to resolution. No further meetings have been scheduled between negotiators for the Indians and officials of the Justice and Interior Departments.

Russell Means, a leader of the American Indian Movement which led the occupation of Wounded Knee, said Monday that all the demands issued by the Indians during the siege have now boiled down to one involving an 1868 treaty.

Means said the treaty promised Sioux Indians all the land west of the Missouri River in Dakota Territory, an area which includes North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Wyoming and Montana.

"Now we want it," Means said. The Indians earlier had demanded investigations of the BIA and the tribal government at Pine Ridge, home of 11,000 Oglala Sioux.

Turnover Of FBI Data?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A campaign worker has sworn she was called on the carpet by President Nixon's reelection committee 48 hours after talking to the FBI in private during the Watergate investigation.

The affidavit of the worker, Judith Hoback, was obtained by Sen. Birch Bayh, a member of the Judiciary Committee, which is considering Nixon's nomination of L. Patrick Gray III to be permanent FBI director.

Mrs. Hoback was identified as one of three Nixon campaign employees who asked for private interviews with the FBI after lawyers for the campaign sat in on the first sessions.

In testimony before the Judiciary Committee, Gray said that reports on the three confidential interviews were made available to John W. Dean III,

White House counsel.

After reading Mrs. Hoback's affidavit, members of the Judiciary staff said they are "proceeding on the assumption that Dean turned the information (from the private interview) over unless he tells us otherwise."

In her affidavit, Mrs. Hoback swore that within 48 hours of her private interview, she was confronted by Kenneth Wells Parkinson, a lawyer for the Nixon campaign, who stated: "I hear you have been talking to the FBI."

"To my knowledge," she said in the affidavit, "I had not informed anyone of my interviews with the FBI and the interviews were in confidence and no one else knew."

Dean, and his conduct during the investigation of the bugging of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate building, has become a focal point in the Judiciary Committee's consideration of Gray.

Despite Nixon's objections, the committee is expected to vote today to invite Dean to testify on his role during the Watergate probe. Nixon has said he will not let Dean testify, and he reiterated that position Monday.

Meanwhile, Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., picked up unexpected support for his motion Monday when committee Chairman James O. Eastland said he favors inviting Dean.

As a matter of protocol, Senate committees invite witnesses to appear. If the request is turned down, a committee must vote again to issue a subpoena.

Although the Judiciary Committee might vote to invite Dean to appear, Tunney could run into stronger opposition to subpoena him, especially after Nixon's comments on Monday.

Nixon said it would be his policy to decline any request for an appearance by a member or former member of his personal staff to testify before a congressional committee. He spelled out his position in a White House statement on "executive privilege," which he had promised at a Jan. 31 news conference.

While resisting formal commands for his staff to appear, Nixon said he would "provide all necessary and relevant information through informal contacts between my present staff and committees of Congress in ways which preserve intact the constitutional separation of the branches."

VC Sets POW Release On Friday

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong delayed until Friday its release to U.S. officials of 32 prisoners of war but delivered the names today of 25 military personnel and seven civilians to be freed.

North Vietnam is scheduled to release 108 Americans in Hanoi Wednesday, but there was no word yet what time the transfer would begin.

A Viet Cong spokesman said all 32 persons being freed Friday were Americans captured in South Vietnam. But a U.S. spokesman said the letter delivered by the Viet Cong spoke of "32 U.S. military personnel and civilians of foreign countries allied with the United States."

The list was sent to Washington to be made public later today after the families of the POWs were notified.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are indications the Soviet Union is eager to increase trade with the United States and may try to nail down the deal by easing barriers against emigration of Jews.

But it appears any relaxation would be accomplished unofficially; a public change in policy appears out of the question.

These general impressions were relayed by several congressmen and others who attended a session Monday on Capitol Hill with V.S. Alkhimov, the Soviet deputy minister of foreign trade, and other Soviet officials.

The unusual meeting at a local club was arranged by the Soviet embassy and the National Association of Manufacturers, which is as anxious as the Russians to make a reality of the sweeping trade agreement reached by the U.S. and Soviet governments last October.

The biggest hitch is growing congressional irritation with the "diploma tax" decreed in secret last August by the Soviet Union. This requires emigrants to pay the state for their higher education. Individual payments have run as high as $25,000 to $30,000.

The most visible victims are Jews who wish to emigrate. In Moscow, sources reported the Jewish emigration rate dropped sharply during January and February.

As for the trade deal itself, the Soviet Union wants Russian exports to get as favorable terms here as those the United States grants other trading partners.

But in Congress, which has the final say, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., has more than 70 senators lined up to support an amendment to deny the concession unless the Russians stop applying the exit tax.

Meanwhile, as the Russians talked to some 15 congressmen and NAM

President E.D. Kenna and two of his aides, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz was in Moscow probing the attitudes of Soviet officials while consulting about Soviet U.S. trade prospects generally.

Some congressional sources view his visit as the kind of "quiet diplomacy" favorable by the administration.

But Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, told a reporter he intends to stand fast on a bill to deny favored-nation status to the Soviet Union if it maintains high exit taxes for Jews.

Ex-Kennedy Advisors Claim Pentagon Papers Worthless

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two former advisers to President John F. Kennedy have disputed the government's contention that Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo endangered their country by copying the secret Pentagon papers.

And a third, John Kenneth Galbraith, returns to the witness stand today in the espionage, conspiracy and theft trial of Russo and Ellsberg.

Kennedy advisers Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and McGeorge Bundy told jurors Monday that the enemy in Vietnam could not have used volumes of the Pentagon study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam which were copied by Ellsberg and Russo because the information in them was outdated.

Schlesinger, author of the Kennedy administration memoir "A Thousand Days," tried to tell jurors several times that the nation could have been helped if one volume of the papers—a section dealing with Kennedy's hopes to withdraw U.S. troops—had been made public long before Ellsberg and Russo admittedly copied the documents in 1969, but most of his remarks were stricken from the court record.

The Pulitzer-prize winning historian told newsmen later, "I think that had this volume been disclosed earlier we would have been spared much bloodshed and agony in southeast Asia."

Schlesinger said the volume—which shows that Kennedy hoped to withdraw all troops by 1965—would have influenced debates over future involvement in the war had it been available to Congress and the public.

"It would have made clear," he said, "the great reservations President Kennedy had about our commitment in Vietnam . . ."

Schlesinger, 55, is now Schweitzer Professor of History at the City College of New York.

Ellsberg released the Pentagon papers to news media in 1971, but the indictment does not cover that period.

President's Vision: Make Americans More Self-Reliant

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's vision of America is of a nation where people do more for themselves and government does less; a land where individuals make their own decisions and the bureaucracy keeps its nose out.

It is of a people guided by a strong sense of self-discipline and not by a paternalistic government.

In the comfortable seclusion of his Camp David lodge on a sunny Saturday last October, President Nixon leaned forward and spoke into a microphone on the desk before him.

"The central question, which goes to the heart of the American government and is sure to affect every person in this land, is this:

"Do we want to turn more power over to the bureaucrats in Washington in the hope that they will do what is best for all the people? Or do we want to return more power to the people and to their state and local governments, so that people can decide what is best for them?"

In the next 10 minutes, the President provided his answer to that question and, in the nationwide radio address, began tracing the vision he would pursue in a second term.

With Vietnam fading as a dominant issue, it's this vision that now is being translated into Nixon's second-term domestic legislative proposals and executive actions, providing the thread that links such presidential moves as:

—A tight-fisted federal budget designed to check the expansion of many government social and welfare programs.

—Steps toward dismantling the Office of Economic Opportunity, the agency created almost a decade ago to carry out the visions of past Democratic presidents of a poverty-free nation.

—Proposals to replace a maze of federal grant programs with the no-strings-attached special-revenue-sharing concept, with local and state officials deciding how to spend the money.

—Efforts to reorganize federal departments and trim payrolls, planning for a reformed welfare system and continued moves to outlaw forced busing of school children to achieve racial balance.

There are those in Congress who contend Nixon's vision of a self-reliant America overlooks the fact that many poor, disabled and undereducated still need extensive help from the federal government.

And among governors and mayors the view has been voiced that Nixon is moving too fast to turn more money and power to state and local governments—that these levels of government are being shortchanged.

Nixon laid the foundation for virtually all these post-election moves in a series of radio addresses last fall—speeches which his aides describe as perhaps the most comprehensive guide to what he seeks in his second term.

"Most important, perhaps," says his chief speechwriter, Raymond K. Price Jr., "is the fact that woven through all of them are the President's firmly held convictions about the nature of American society . . . and about his hopes for the future . . ."

In his Oct. 21 speech from Camp David, Nixon gave a glimpse of his deep distrust and dislike for the federal bureaucracy.

There are times, he said, when government involvement is necessary. "But," he continued, "the concentration of power can get to be a dangerous habit. Government officials who get power over others tend to want to keep it. And the more power they get the more they want."

"Most Americans don't like to be under anybody's control, no matter how benevolent that control may be. It is one thing to be well taken care of, but for those able to take care of themselves, it is far more important to be free."

A few weeks later, sitting in the living room of his San Clemente, Calif., home, Nixon told Washington Star-

News White House correspondent Garnett D. Horner why he thinks government should try to reinforce the individual's self-discipline.

"The average American," he said, "is just like the child in the family. You give him some responsibility and he is going to amount to something. He is going to do something. If, on the other hand, you make him completely dependent and pamper him and cater to him too much, you are going to make him soft, spoiled and eventually a very weak individual."

Nearly three months later, Nixon elaborated on the same point in the most quoted line of his inaugural address:

"In our lives, let each of us ask—not just what will government do for me, but what can I do for myself?"

After the inaugural, he started sending a stream of messages to Congress. In the first, he said he wanted "a fresh approach to government: an approach that addresses the realities of the 1970s, not those of the 1930s or the 1960s."

He gave his view of what role government should play:

"The role . . . should not be to dominate any facet of American life, but rather to aid and encourage people, communities and institutions to deal with as many of the difficulties and challenges facing them as possible, and to help see to it that every American has a full and equal opportunity to realize his or her potential."

In the series of radio addresses, Nixon spoke often of his vision of the America of the future. In one, he described it as a place where "our children's right to be born in a great and good America—a land where people's daily lives are guided by deep moral and spiritual principles, where families are close and strong, where patriotism flourishes without apology, where shared ideals forge unity out of diversity, and where the character of each individual and of the nation as a whole measures up to the high hopes, the dreams which all mankind invests in America."

state guests at the Gia Lam Airport" that day. The guests were not identified.

At the time the cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28, the Communists said they held a total of 585 American prisoners in North and South Vietnam and Laos. Prior to the releases scheduled for this week, they had freed a total of 299.

The exchange of Vietnamese military prisoners continued today for the sixth consecutive day. Release of 1,200 Communists at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, was delayed two hours when one of the POWs broke ranks and ran to members of peacekeeping teams, asking to defect to the Saigon side, South Vietnamese spokesman Le Trung Hien reported. But Lt. Col. Hien said other prisoners ran after the man, beat him and dragged him off to the Communist headquarters.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market spun its wheels again today, caught in the continuing uncertainties surrounding the international monetary situation.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 2.33 at 972.08. Declining issues, however, took over from gainers by a 584-to-546 margin in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said a downward movement in the price of gold bullion and silver was one factor that spurred scattered buying in early trading. But investors showed no firm sign of a broad rise in confidence, brokers said.

The Big Board's most-active issue was S.S. Kresge, ahead 3/4 at 43 3/4.

While the blue chips, as reflected in the Dow industrial average, were generally registering small gains, glamour issues tended to mark time. IBM was ahead 3/4 at 443 3/4, and Xerox slipped 1 to 164.

North Viet Reconstruction Talks To Open In Vacuum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is going into talks on an aid program for North Vietnam with very little knowledge of what will be needed and no definite plan for obtaining the information.

U.S. officials said the American delegation has no proposals of its own and is willing to consider nearly any Hanoi plan for reconstruction when the

Stennis Shooting Arrests Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three young men were held under $100,000 bond today, charged in the holdup-shooting of Sen. John C. Stennis last January.

The arrests of Tyrone Marshall, 19, John S. Marshall, 21, and Derick Holloway, 18, all of Northeast Washington, were announced Monday night after one of the most intensive manhunts in District of Columbia history. A 30-man team of police and FBI agents had questioned hundreds of persons.

The three men were charged with

Senate Opens OBES Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Senate committee called for testimony today in an investigation into the layoff of 250 employees of the Bureau of Employment Services, although most have been ordered back to work by a court.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, requested the probe and is chairman of a Senate committee which wants to question BES Administrator William Barnes and others.

Garnes said the layoffs were required following a cutback of $4 million in funds from the U.S. Labor Department. Aronoff challenged the layoffs on grounds they were in conflict with state and federal civil service regulations.

The administrator said Monday he has requested the Labor Department to restore a portion of the $4 million "in the hope that the number of employee layoffs can be reduced."

Garnes said all the employees whose jobs had been abolished have been instructed to return to their jobs. But he noted the court order mentioned that the OBES "acted in good faith" and said that its decision was a "hair line" one.

The committee started the investigation as the House and Senate returned from weekend recess to begin a work week heavy with planned committee activity. Subsections of the House Finance Committee were to resume deliberations on the administration's $9.7 billion, two-year budget. The Senate Finance Committee is deliberating the administration's $92.3 million federal revenue sharing bill, already passed by the House.

Seven bills were introduced Monday at a skeleton session of the House, including a widelysupported, bipartisan measure to strengthen Ohio's drug laws. Rep. George Mastics, R-3 Cleveland, is the main sponsor, but it carried the names of 54 other representatives of both parties—five more than needed for passage.

British Labor Problems Get Better

LONDON (AP) — Britain's troubled labor scene appeared somewhat brighter today as some hospital workers returned to their jobs, gas workers planned to vote on a new wage offer, and reports circulated of a possible settlement by the rail unions.

Leaders of the rail unions involved in slowdowns and weekly one-day strikes discussed proposals put forward by Victor Feather, the head of the Trades Union Congress. Feather was reported hopeful his intervention Monday with the union chiefs would bring results, but there was no indication what he proposed.

The railmen are trying to preserve the pay differentials engineers and firemen enjoy over other workers. They are also seeking bigger pay raises than the government's anti-inflation guidelines allow.

The chance of a settlement of the month-long slowdown by gas workers emerged Monday when union leaders agreed to a ballot for their 47,000 members on a new pay offer. Informed sources said there was a fair chance for approval.

The state gas boards have offered the men an extra $5 a week on base pay of $7 a week with overtime. The gasmen now average about $85 dollars a week with overtime.

Meanwhile, 350 hospital auxiliary workers returned to work at the provincial centers of Bath and Cardiff. A union official at Cardiff, James Davies, resigned his union post, saying: "I have been sickened by the state of the wards and the patients."

Train Accident Fatal

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Robert Carroll, 37, of Toledo, was killed Monday afternoon when his car was crushed after being struck by a train in a PennCentral Railroad yard at Toledo.

armed robbery and violating a 1971 law making it a federal crime to attack a member of Congress. They were scheduled for arraignment today before a U.S. magistrate.

Stennis, 71, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was shot twice about 7:40 p.m. Jan. 30 just after he parked his car outside his home of 20 years in Northwest Washington. For days his condition was critical. He still is hospitalized.

Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III, in announcing the arrests, said Tyrone Marshall had been taken into custody earlier Monday on disorderly-conduct charges. The others were arrested later by FBI agents and D.C. police.

The relationship of the Marshalls was not clarified but they lived at the same local address.

Deputy Police Chief Mahlon R. Pitts said the investigation began to make progress within the last four or five days and a major development occurred sometime after 6 p.m. Monday. He did not elaborate.

Stennis' office estimated rewards totaled more than $50,000 for conviction of his assailants.

President Nixon was among the hospital visitors to Stennis, one of the most influential and respected men on Capitol Hill.

The senator had suffered a flesh wound in the thigh and a damaging wound in the abdomen. Doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center performed a 6 1/2-hour emergency operation shortly after he was shot and operated again on Feb. 6. But, by March 3, he was said to be on the way to full recovery. He remains in Walter Reed.

Jail Inmate Wed, Returned To Cell

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — It was a trip back to jail instead of a honeymoon for a 26-year-old Sandusky man who got married Monday in the Erie County sheriff's office.

The prisoner, Roy Smith, wore a crushed velvet suit for the ceremony while his bride, Juanita Gordon, wore lavender hot pants. After the exchange of vows, the couple embraced each other before deputies led Smith back to jail.

Smith was indicted recently for first-degree murder in the parking lot slaying last January of David Bailes of Bloomington, Ind.

Joint U.S.-North Vietnam Economic Commission opens talks Thursday in Paris.

The only limit, it appears, is that the United States will not provide aid for rebuilding Hanoi's war-making capacity.

But there is no proposal under consideration now on how to frame this limitation, U.S. officials acknowledge, nor is there any plan for verifying that any aid will not be used inappropriately.

Neither is there a U.S. position on how to determine what assistance North Vietnam will require. As a starting point, the American delegation in Paris will use Hanoi's own assessment.

In addition, U.S. officials say there are no plans to send an American team to North Vietnam to decide independently what might be needed or to check on Hanoi's assessment.

One State Department official said he had no suggestions on how to obtain such figures, saying this matter will have to be determined by this commission.

Such an open-minded approach may give desirable flexibility to the U.S. negotiating position in Paris, but it doesn't appear calculated to win friends in Congress.

There is considerable sentiment on Capitol Hill against any aid for North Vietnam, and congressional sources say a very firm U.S. approach is needed in the joint commission.

No arrangement will be accepted, the congressional critics say, that does not provide for tight controls on what is needed and the actual use of aid.

Winter Storm Gives Rockies Snowy Wallop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter gave the southern Rockies another wallop today, dumping a foot of snow in northern Arizona and southern Utah. Most of the rest of the nation basked in spring-like weather.

In Missouri, dozens of homeowners stood ready to move to higher ground as the rain-swollen Missouri and Mississippi rivers flowed out of their banks and tributaries gushed over rich, low-lying farmland.

The most serious flooding was on the Missouri River between Boonville and St. Charles, near St. Louis.

Two deaths were caused by the flooding over the weekend. Two men in a truck were swept off a road by a swollen stream in southeastern Missouri.

Unseasonably mild temperatures and early thawing, plus an abundance of rain over the weekend hastened the spring flooding by two weeks, according to authorities.

The storm in the Rockies was expected to cross the Continental Divide today and bring winter back to areas from Colorado to North Dakota.

Heavy-snow warnings were in effect for the mountains and southwest parts of Colorado and the central mountains of New Mexico. Storm and heavysnow watches were issued for parts of Wyoming, Nebraska, Montana and the Dakotas.

Flagstaff, Ariz., was hit by a foot of snow, bringing the total on the ground there to 23 inches. Kingman, in northwestern Arizona, was soaked with 1.79 inches of rain during a 24-hour period.

Deputy Brown Hurt In Fight With Man

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff J. Phillip Brown charged James E. Woodgeard, Route 4, with assault and battery of a police officer after Woodgeard allegedly punched the deputy while he was serving an eviction notice.

Deputy Brown suffered a black eye and facial scratches in the scuffle.

The report states that the deputy served divorce papers to Woodgeard about 5:30 p.m. Monday. The papers were accompanied by a restraining order that ordered Woodgeard to vacate his house on the Kime-Holderman Rd.

Deputy Brown was called back to the residence by Mrs. Woodgeard 6:45 p.m. Monday. When he went to question Woodgeard, the man hit him with his fists in the face and kicked him.

Mrs. Woodgeard called for additional help, but after a two minute scuffle, the Deputy had Woodgeard handcuffed in the rear seat of his cruiser.

Nurse Homes Seek Order On Payments

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Nine southwest Ohio nursing homes have asked a federal court to order Ohio to compute payments to them for indigent patients the same way payments are determined for hospitals.

The homes also sought reimbursement of $448,713 in an action filed Monday in U.S. District Court.

Attorney Ralph Kohnen, representing the nursing homes, charged that the Ohio Welfare Department pays the nursing homes a top rate of $15 per day. At the same time, the state pays hospitals on the basis of reasonable costs up to $80 per day to hospitals under the Medicaid program.

Kohnen said the nursing homes want the state to compute payments on a similar basis for them. He said the rates would be lower than those paid hospitals, however.

Plaintiffs are the Barbara Park Nursing Home, Crestview Home, Daly Park Nursing Home, Deer Park Nursing Home, Hillebrand Nursing Home and Kenwood Terrace Nursing Home, all of the Cincinnati area. Also, the Oxford View Nursing Center, Fairfield, Ohio, and the Wilmington Extended Care Facility of Wilmington, Ohio.

Defendants is Ohio Welfare Director Charles Bates.

Campora Said Winner In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's military government declared Peronist candidate Hector J. Campora the winner of the presidential election even though he was still a little short of the required majority today.

Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, president of the military junta, announced in a telecast Monday night that the 63-year-old dentist-turned-politician was the winner in Sunday's balloting. It was the country's first election since 1965.

With only 808 of 55,452 polling places still out, Campora had 5,995,943 votes, or 49 per cent. Ricardo Balbin of the Radical Civic Union was next with 2,596,082, or 21.21 per cent. Seven other candidates divided the rest.

Campora technically needs 50 per cent plus one vote to avoid a run-off election in April. But Lanusse said he was close enough to be declared the "virtual winner." Lanusse said he would deliver the presidential sash to Campora on May 25, the inauguration day.

Interior Minister Arturo Mor Roig said even if the final count failed to give Campora a majority, a runoff would be "impractical" and pointless— unless the Radicals insisted on it.

There was no immediate comment from the Radicals.

The Peronists went wild at Lanusse's announcement. More than 15,000 paraded in downtown Buenos Aires, and a few were injured in scrapes with police and troops.

North Viet Reconstruction Talks To Open In Vacuum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is going into talks on an aid program for North Vietnam with very little knowledge of what will be needed and no definite plan for obtaining the information. U.S. officials said the American delegation has no proposals of its own and is willing to consider nearly any Hanoi plan for reconstruction when the Joint U.S.-North Vietnam Economic Commission opens talks Thursday in Paris.

The only limit, it appears, is that the United States will not provide aid for rebuilding Hanoi's war-making capacity.

But there is no proposal under consideration now on how to frame this limitation, U.S. officials acknowledge, nor is there any plan for verifying that any aid will not be used inappropriately.

Neither is there a U.S. position on how to determine what assistance North Vietnam will require. As a starting point, the American delegation in Paris will use Hanoi's own assessment.

In addition, U.S. officials say there are no plans to send an American team to North Vietnam to decide independently what might be needed or to check on Hanoi's assessment.

One State Department official said he had no suggestions on how to obtain such figures, saying this matter will have to be determined by this commission.

Such an open-minded approach may give desirable flexibility to the U.S. negotiating position in Paris, but it doesn't appear calculated to win friends in Congress.

There is considerable sentiment on Capitol Hill against any aid for North Vietnam, and congressional sources say a very firm U.S. approach is needed in the joint commission.

No arrangement will be accepted, the congressional critics say, that does not provide for tight controls on what is needed and the actual use of aid.

Stennis Shooting Arrests Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three young men were held under $100,000 bond today, charged in the holdup-shooting of Sen. John C. Stennis last January.

The arrests of Tyrone Marshall, 19, John S. Marshall, 21, and Derick Holloway, 18, all of Northeast Washington, were announced Monday night after one of the most intensive manhunts in District of Columbia history. A 30-man team of police and FBI agents had questioned hundreds of persons.

The three men were charged with armed robbery and violating a 1971 law making it a federal crime to attack a member of Congress. They were scheduled for arraignment today before a U.S. magistrate.

Stennis, 71, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, was shot twice about 7:40 p.m. Jan. 30 just after he parked his car outside his home of 20 years in Northwest Washington. For days his condition was critical. He still is hospitalized.

Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III, in announcing the arrests, said Tyrone Marshall had been taken into custody earlier Monday on disorderly-conduct charges. The others were arrested later by FBI agents and D.C. police.

The relationship of the Marshalls was not clarified but they lived at the same local address.

Deputy Police Chief Mahlon R. Pitts said the investigation began to make progress within the last four or five days and a major development occurred sometime after 6 p.m. Monday. He did not elaborate.

Stennis' office estimated rewards totaled more than $50,000 for conviction of his assailants.

President Nixon was among the hospital visitors to Stennis, one of the most influential and respected men on Capitol Hill.

The senator had suffered a flesh wound in the thigh and a damaging wound in the abdomen. Doctors at Walter Reed Army Medical Center performed a 6 1/2-hour emergency operation shortly after he was shot and operated again on Feb. 6. But, by March 3, he was said to be on the way to full recovery. He remains in Walter Reed.

Jail Inmate Wed, Returned To Cell

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — It was a trip back to jail instead of a honeymoon for a 26-year-old Sandusky man who got married Monday in the Erie County sheriff's office.

The prisoner, Roy Smith, wore a crushed velvet suit for the ceremony while his bride, Juanita Gordon, wore lavender hot pants. After the exchange of vows, the couple embraced each other before deputies led Smith back to jail.

Smith was indicted recently for first-degree murder in the parking lot slaying last January of David Bailes of Bloomington, Ind.

Deputy Brown Hurt In Fight With Man

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff J. Phillip Brown charged James E. Woodgeard, Route 4, with assault and battery of a police officer after Woodgeard allegedly punched the deputy while he was serving an eviction notice.

Deputy Brown suffered a black eye and facial scratches in the scuffle.

The report states that the deputy served divorce papers to Woodgeard about 5:30 p.m. Monday. The papers were accompanied by a restraining order that ordered Woodgeard to vacate his house on the Kime-Holderman Rd.

Deputy Brown was called back to the residence by Mrs. Woodgeard 6:45 p.m. Monday. When he went to question Woodgeard, the man hit him with his fists in the face and kicked him.

Mrs. Woodgeard called for additional help, but after a two minute scuffle, the Deputy had Woodgeard handcuffed in the rear seat of his cruiser.

Nurse Homes Seek Order On Payments

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Nine southwest Ohio nursing homes have asked a federal court to order Ohio to compute payments to them for indigent patients the same way payments are determined for hospitals.

The homes also sought reimbursement of $448,713 in an action filed Monday in U.S. District Court.

Attorney Ralph Kohlen, representing the nursing homes, charged that the Ohio Welfare Department pays the nursing homes a top rate of $15 per day. At the same time, the state pays hospitals on the basis of reasonable costs up to $80 per day to hospitals under the Medicaid program.

Kohlen said the nursing homes want the state to compute payments on a similar basis for them. He said the rates would be lower than those paid hospitals, however.

Plaintiffs are the Barbara Park Nursing Home, Crestview Home, Daly Park Nursing Home, Deer Park Nursing Home, Hillebrand Nursing Home and Kenwood Terrace Nursing Home, all of the Cincinnati area. Also, the Oxford View Nursing Center, Fairfield, Ohio, and the Wilmington Extended Care Facility of Wilmington, Ohio.

Defendants is Ohio Welfare Director Charles Bates.

Campora Said Winner In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's military government declared Peronist candidate Hector J. Campora the winner of the presidential election even though he was still a little short of the required majority today.

Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, president of the military junta, announced in a telecast Monday night that the 63-year-old dentist-turned-politician was the winner in Sunday's balloting. It was the country's first election since 1965.

With only 808 of 55,452 polling places still out, Campora had 5,995,943 votes, or 49 per cent. Ricardo Balbin of the Radical Civic Union was next with 2,596,082, or 21.21 per cent. Seven other candidates divided the rest.

Campora technically needs 50 per cent plus one vote to avoid a run-off election in April. But Lanusse said he was close enough to be declared the "virtual winner." Lanusse said he would deliver the presidential sash to Campora on May 25, the inauguration day.

Interior Minister Arturo Mor Roig said even if the final count failed to give Campora a majority, a runoff would be "impractical" and pointless— unless the Radicals insisted on it.

There was no immediate comment from the Radicals.

The Peronists went wild at Lanusse's announcement. More than 15,000 paraded in downtown Buenos Aires, and a few were injured in scrapes with police and troops.

Group Opposed To Ohio Lottery Changes Name

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Churchmen Against the Lottery" changed its name Monday to "Ohioans Against the Lottery Tax" and began making plans for a campaign to swing public opinion against the lottery issue.

Issue No. 1 on the May ballot will be whether or not to amend the Ohio Constitution to permit creation of a state lottery.

Paul Minus of Worthington, chairman of the group, said the organization will raise money for anti-lottery brochures, posters and bumper stickers.

Minus said his organization will try to present the lottery as a tax on the poor. He said the group would hold a conference in Columbus March 24 during which economists, sociologists and political scientists will discuss the consequences of a state lottery.

INTERNATIONAL DEMOLAY WEEK

MARCH 12 to 18

54th Anniversary of DeMolay

The Order Of DeMolay

Building better citizens out of teenage boys is the goal of the Order of DeMolay, an international youth organization founded on March 18, 1919 in Kansas City, Mo., by Frank S. Land and nine teenage youths.

The organization was named for Jacques DeMolay, the last Grand Master of the Knights Templars, who was burned at the stake by King Phillip of France on March 18, 1314, as a martyr to loyalty and toleration. Today, members of DeMolay strive to carry on the fine ideals of which DeMolay gave his life — loyalty and service to God and fellow men.

DeMolay does not attempt to take the place of the home or church, but rather supplement them. The organization's purpose is to offer the teenage boy of today:

1. A wholesome occupation for his spare time
2. Worth-while associates
3. The best of environment
4. An interesting and complete program of all-around youth development.

A Page Of Opinion

Unsolved Fire Problem

If anyone has an answer to America's number one fire problem—careless smoking—he has yet to come forward and speak up. Ever since record keeping started, firemen have known that careless use of matches and smoking materials has been the cause of more than 50 percent of fires inside and outside the homes of the nation.

But they are baffled. What can they do about it?

Part of the problem is that smoking is a habit that has become so universal smokers often handle smoking materials without conscious thought. It is compounded when the smoker is by himself and is lulled into half-consciousness by drink.

In such circumstances, people can actually lie on a blazing bed without being conscious of their danger or the pain, and on occasion such smokers have even fought firemen who have had to forcibly remove them from danger.

Thousands of firemen would like to know what can be done about the problem of the careless smoker. It is against the law now to smoke in bed while in a hotel or motel.

But many deaths from careless smoking do not occur in such places. Often, however, they are in apartment houses, potentially endangering the lives of many people besides the smoker himself.

Careless smokers never seem to think fire will happen to them—even when they have previous records of setting blazes. And when a habit is as widespread as smoking, how do you deal with the criminally careless who cannot or will not discipline themselves?

Nobody seems to know. But something must be done to deal with a factor that is causing such needless loss in lives and property.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I saw in last Tuesday's edition of The Herald Mr. and Mrs. Ira Harrington of 212 W. Mound St., are being charged with discrimination. The charge alleges the Harringtons refused to rent an apartment to a black couple.

For more than 30 years I have known Mr. and Mrs. Harrington and at one time I rented from them. They are two of the finest people I have ever known and I cannot believe they are prejudiced against blacks.

Yours truly

Dear Editor:

As we move through life gathering impressions of people whom we meet along the way, there are always those who leave behind memories that become firmly ensconced in our minds. Such a one may have been just an average John Doe who shouldered lives' responsibilities and gave dignity to the task in doing so — the dignity coming from a willingness to help others.

To me such a man was the late Homer R. Spangler (known as "Happy" to his many friends) of Circleville. I could go into detail in enumerating the things he did for me. I could do the same for many others. The point I wish to stress is that Homer asked nothing in return for his kindnesses. Just having them accepted was award enough.

I am of the opinion that life for all of us attains its meaning and becomes bearable through those admirable contributions made to it by many of those we meet along the way.

Many will miss Homer, but will cherish his kindness and thoughtful ways. Memories of him will live on for many years to come. Circleville was honored indeed to have such a wonderful man as Homer R. Spangler.

Sincerely yours,

Miss Mildred Rankin, field director of the Ohio Citizens Council for Health and Welfare spoke on "Community Planning for Defense Areas" at the meeting of the Monday Club in Memorial Hall.

Pickaway County's Berger Hospital was expected to be completely remodeled and its new wing ready for occupancy by the first of 1954.

Circleville's expansion program met its first major test in City Council's regular meeting and the results were promising-but indecisive. Township residents, who would be affected by extension of the corporation limits, were represented by a large delegation and disagreed with the lawmakers on some of the main points involved.

Wholesale theft of chickens from a brooder house in western Pickaway County was being investigated by the sheriff's department. Mrs. Forest Morris of New Holland reported that 95 DeKalb chickens had been stolen from the brooder house on their farm.

County Extension Agent Larry Best urged local residents to mark the 150th birthday of the state by planting trees and shrubs. It was part of Governor Frank J. Lausche's project to "Plant Trees Today for Tomorrow."

LAFF - A - DAY

"I told you my dad would send me the money by return mail if I threatened to come home!"

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Speaking Of Your Health

My husband is waiting to enter a hospital to have a transplant of the cornea of his left eye. We don't completely understand the operation and pray that it will be successful. Is there any way of telling what the chances of success are?

Mrs. K. J., La.

The transplantation of a cornea is one of the most exciting advances in modern surgery. Eyes that previously were destined never to see again are, in many instances, rejuvenated and given another opportunity to function with a great degree of normality.

The generous and humane people who "will" their corneas to eye banks leave a constant testimonial to their goodness in the new-found happiness of those who regain their sight. Hundreds of thousands of people have answered the plea for corneas. Yet not enough are available to satisfy the surgical needs of patients all over the world.

The chance of success after transplantation depend entirely on the individual case. It serves no function to speak about general percentages because numbers themselves have a tendency to terrorize patients and their families.

What is most encouraging is that the new techniques for transplantation of corneas, skillfully performed under high-powered surgical microscopes have significantly increased the chances of success. Highly refined sutures, or sewing material, coupled with antibiotics to prevent infection, have added markedly to the percentages of complete success.

Homage must be paid to Dr. R. Townley Paton of the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital in New York City for his philosophical vision that extended the horizons of hope for certain cases of blindness that could only be remedied with a corneal transplant.

Dr. Paton established the first eye bank more than a quarter of a century ago. Since then, eye banks all over the world are in constant communication with each other, notifying surgeons that corneas are available to meet their patients' critical needs.

Through cooperation of the Air Force, health and service agencies, and private airlines, these corneas are rapidly delivered to hospitals.

Do thyroid goiters tend to run in families? Two people in mine have this condition.

Miss S. C., Ohio

There is no hereditary tendency to develop goiter or enlargement of the thyroid gland. It is known that in certain inland areas of the country where there is a deficiency of iodine in the water, there is a greater tendency for goiters to occur. Children of the same family in the same area may develop this condition, but not because of a genetic tendency.

GAO To Probe Student Payoff By Nixon Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Committee for the Re-election of the President is facing an investigation by the General Accounting Office over indications that it failed to report payments to a student who says he was hired as a spy.

Today's Washington Post reported that Philip S. Hughes, director of GAO's Federal Elections Office, will investigate the payments to Theodore F. Brill, 20, a George Washington University student who said he was hired as a Nixon committee spy.

The Post also said that former Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans will be questioned as part of the investigation. Stans left his Cabinet post to head Nixon's fund-raising campaign.

Brill is chairman of the university's Young Republican organization. Friday he disclosed that he had been paid $150 a week for five weeks to spy on radical groups for the Nixon committee.

Man Of Principle

By JEFFREY HART

George McGovern, as is well known, came before us during the last two years as a man of flinty principle. Not for him the grubby pragmatism of ordinary politics. He would take inspiring swan dives from the lofty springboard of liberal axiom. But of late George has been sounding strangely different.

Item: During the Presidential campaign, Sen. McGovern went around the nation proclaiming that we could realize increased revenues of $22 billion just by closing what he called tax loopholes. Today, however, he says: "Maybe you can't get the full $22 billion I recommended in the campaign but you could go one-third of the way."

Item: During the campaign, McGovern also went across the nation proclaiming that you could cut $31 billion out of the Pentagon budget. Now, upon deep reconsideration, he considers that sum unrealistic. He will claim at most a $7, to $9 billion saving.

Item: On amnesty, which is becoming the big Now issue on the Left, McGovern has clammed up. He was all for it in the campaign, but now that Scarsdale grade-schoolers are begin required to "debate" the issue, now that heart-rending letters from exiles are spontaneously appearing on the Op-Ed page of the Times, now that every editorialist in the country is kicking the issue around, George is not buying. Amnesty, he explains, is the prerogative of the President. He does not expect the Senate to do much about it. Certainly he, McGovern, is not going to introduce a resolution about it, or anything nutty like that.

Well, there are those who think that this unaccustomed reticence has something to do with the fact that McGovern is running for re-election in 1974 — and not in Massachusetts or the District of Columbia, but, much stickier, in South Dakota. And — the fact doubtless has not been lost on George — South Dakota was carried against him handily in 1972 by Nixon the Horrible.

Especially delicious to connoisseurs of political position-taking is McGovern's current stand on post-war American aid to North Vietnam, part of the package negotiated by Kissinger in Paris.

On the basis of McGovern's Presidential campaign, you would fully expect that he would want to rebuild North Vietnam in alabaster and rubies. Only such could possibly make up for what he then was pleased to characterize as Hitlerian American guilt. You would think that McGovern would be attacking Nixon as too slow to ship the dough, too niggardly in his sums, too nit-picking about the release of prisoners and other elements of the deal.

Forget it. McGovern has come out against aid to Hanoi, joining hands across the Senate aisle with Barry Goldwater, Bill Brock, and others. Of course, in a clever move, McGovern pointed out that if we are cutting back on Federal spending at home, it is hardly the time to start spending in North Vietnam. If his South Dakota constituency thought that what he had in mind there was farm subsidies, well, George would not be unhappy with that interpretation. If his liberal supporters elsewhere think he's taking about the OEO, that's fine too. Tricky George.

Arabs Talking To Israel?

TEL AVIV (AP) — A highranking member of Premier Golda Meir's Labor party says Israelis are holding regular secret talks with leaders of the Arab world.

The statement by Yitzhak Ben-Aharon, secretary-general of the giant Histadrut Labor Federation, followed earlier reports of meetings between Deputy Premier Yigal Allon and King Hussein of Jordan. The government has denied the reports.

Ben-Aharon was quoted today as saying: "There is no doubt that exploratory talks are going on all the time." He called on the government to clarify its "political path" regarding the talks.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban scoffed at Ben-Aharon's statement and said: "I wish he would show me a list of these meetings."

In Cairo, meanwhile, an official Egyptian spokesman described as "absolutely untrue" a statement by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers that Egypt, Israel and Jordan expressed the desire to negotiate a settlement. He accused Rogers of "attempting to plant suspicion between the Arab states."

Unsolved Fire Problem

If anyone has an answer to America's number one fire problem—careless smoking—he has yet to come forward and speak up. Ever since record keeping started, firemen have known that careless use of matches and smoking materials has been the cause of more than 50 percent of fires inside and outside the homes of the nation.

But they are baffled. What can they do about it?

Part of the problem is that smoking is a habit that has become so universal smokers often handle smoking materials without conscious thought. It is compounded when the smoker is by himself and is lulled into half-consciousness by drink.

In such circumstances, people can actually lie on a blazing bed without being conscious of their danger or the pain, and on occasion such smokers have even fought firemen who have had to forcibly remove them from danger.

Thousands of firemen would like to know what can be done about the problem of the careless smoker. It is against the law now to smoke in bed while in a hotel or motel.

But many deaths from careless smoking do not occur in such places. Often, however, they are in apartment houses, potentially endangering the lives of many people besides the smoker himself.

Careless smokers never seem to think fire will happen to them—even when they have previous records of setting blazes. And when a habit is as widespread as smoking, how do you deal with the criminally careless who cannot or will not discipline themselves?

Nobody seems to know. But something must be done to deal with a factor that is causing such needless loss in lives and property.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I saw in last Tuesday's edition of The Herald Mr. and Mrs. Ira Harrington of 212 W. Mound St., are being charged with discrimination. The charge alleges the Harringtons refused to rent an apartment to a black couple.

For more than 30 years I have known Mr. and Mrs. Harrington and at one time I rented from them. They are two of the finest people I have ever known and I cannot believe they are prejudiced against blacks.

Dear Editor:

As we move through life gathering impressions of people whom we meet along the way, there are always those who leave behind memories that become firmly ensconced in our minds. Such a one may have been just an average John Doe who shouldered lives' responsibilities and gave dignity to the task in doing so — the dignity coming from a willingness to help others.

To me such a man was the late Homer R. Spangler (known as "Happy" to his many friends) of Circleville. I could go into detail in enumerating the things he did for me. I could do the same for many others. The point I wish to stress is that Homer asked nothing in return for his kindnesses. Just having them accepted was award enough.

I am of the opinion that life for all of us attains its meaning and becomes bearable through those admirable contributions made to it by many of those we meet along the way.

Many will miss Homer, but will cherish his kindness and thoughtful ways. Memories of him will live on for many years to come. Circleville was honored indeed to have such a wonderful man as Homer R. Spangler.

Sincerely yours,

Miss Mildred Rankin, field director of the Ohio Citizens Council for Health and Welfare spoke on "Community Planning for Defense Areas" at the meeting of the Monday Club in Memorial Hall.

Pickaway County's Berger Hospital was expected to be completely remodeled and its new wing ready for occupancy by the first of 1954.

Circleville's expansion program met its first major test in City Council's regular meeting and the results were promising-but indecisive. Township residents, who would be affected by extension of the corporation limits, were represented by a large delegation and disagreed with the lawmakers on some of the main points involved.

Wholesale theft of chickens from a brooder house in western Pickaway County was being investigated by the sheriff's department. Mrs. Forest Morris of New Holland reported that 95 DeKalb chickens had been stolen from the brooder house on their farm.

County Extension Agent Larry Best urged local residents to mark the 150th birthday of the state by planting trees and shrubs. It was part of Governor Frank J. Lausche's project to "Plant Trees Today for Tomorrow."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband is waiting to enter a hospital to have a transplant of the cornea of his left eye. We don't completely understand the operation and pray that it will be successful. Is there any way of telling what the chances of success are?

Mrs. K. J., La.

The transplantation of a cornea is one of the most exciting advances in modern surgery. Eyes that previously were destined never to see again are, in many instances, rejuvenated and given another opportunity to function with a great degree of normality.

The generous and humane people who "will" their corneas to eye banks leave a constant testimonial to their goodness in the new-found happiness of those who regain their sight. Hundreds of thousands of people have answered the plea for corneas. Yet not enough are available to satisfy the surgical needs of patients all over the world.

The chance of success after transplantation depend entirely on the individual case. It serves no function to speak about general percentages because numbers themselves have a tendency to terrorize patients and their families.

What is most encouraging is that the new techniques for transplantation of corneas, skillfully performed under high-powered surgical microscopes have significantly increased the chances of success. Highly refined sutures, or sewing material, coupled with antibiotics to prevent infection, have added markedly to the percentages of complete success.

Homage must be paid to Dr. R. Townley Paton of the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat Hospital in New York City for his philosophical vision that extended the horizons of hope for certain cases of blindness that could only be remedied with a corneal transplant.

Dr. Paton established the first eye bank more than a quarter of a century ago. Since then, eye banks all over the world are in constant communication with each other, notifying surgeons that corneas are available to meet their patients' critical needs.

Through cooperation of the Air Force, health and service agencies, and private airlines, these corneas are rapidly delivered to hospitals.

SOUTHWEST SOUTHEAST
Increasing cloudiness and milder tonight. Lows around 50. Wednesday considerable cloudiness and warmer with showers likely. Highs in the mid 70s.

_OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some cloudiness and light winds were the only adverse factors in Ohio's weather picture today with predictions of continuing mild conditions.

The National Weather Service said a flat high pressure system extending from Hudson Bay southward across the Great Lakes region and the Ohio River Valley area held a band of cloudiness along with light winds over the state. Over the extreme northeast portion of the state some light drizzle fell as the light winds blew in off the cold waters of Lake Erie.

By dawn Tuesday skies had cleared over the extreme south portion of the state and this clearing trend expected to progress northward reaching the extreme northeast portion of Ohio by late afternoon or evening.

As the skies clear sunshine and a shift of the winds to the southeast will start temperatures on the rise. A developing low pressure system over New Mexico is forecasted to intensify and move northeast through Wednesday. As this weather disturbance moves closer to Ohio the southerly wind flow will increase and continue the upward temperature climb into the record breaking range Wednesday. Along with the temperature warmup moisture will be on the increase and cloudiness will once again return to the state.

The forecast also calls for shower activity spreading into the state Wednesday.

Warhorse Can't Leave The Battlefield

DEAR ABBY: I have a boss who is more than ready for retirement. Nobody knows how old he is, but he's been with this company for nearly 40 years.

About four months ago he announced that he would retire on a certain date. He kept saying, "Well, 120 days before I leave, 110 days, 90 days, etc."

We co-workers planned a farewell dinner for him, and I collected the money for his retirement gift.

The morning of the farewell dinner he told us he changed his mind. He is not leaving!

We decided to go through with the dinner and give him the gift anyway. Nobody knows how much longer he will be here.

Have you ever heard of anything so crazy? And what can we do about it?

STEAMED

DEAR STEAMED: What's so crazy about a man changing his mind? When he retires, just say, "Goodbye."

DEAR ABBY: Over a year ago I had some serious emotional problems, and because of my bad behavior my wife left me. Then I did something right for a change. I went to a psychologist. She saw me three times a week, which helped me tremendously. Now I am seeing her only once a week. My psychologist is a single woman, about 40 years old. She is a very understanding person. My problem now is that I am stuck on her!

I would like to see her outside her office. Don't get me wrong. She never did anything to encourage my feelings for her. Should I tell her how I feel about her? I want to, but what if she gets mad at me? Then she wouldn't even see me in her office and I couldn't stand that. Please tell me what to do.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Tell your psychologist how you feel. She'll know how to handle it, and she'll help you deal with your feelings. That's what you're paying her for.

Humphrey Says Kissinger's Best

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says that if he had been elected president in 1968 he would have named Henry A. Kissinger his foreign policy adviser.

Talking with reporters Sunday after White House worship services, the Minnesota Democrat called President Nixon's national security adviser "a professional ... an extraordinary man."

In response to questions, Humphrey, said he has changed his mind and now supports Nixon's plan to give postwar aid to North Vietnam. He said he changed his view because of Nixon's assurances that such aid would not be deducted from the domestic side of the federal budget.

Tougher Child Abuse Laws Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio lawmaker wants to change outdated statutes against torture and child abuse that "must have been written back when people thought nothing of knocking a child's head off with a club."

Rep. J. Leonard Camera, D-53 Lorain, has introduced a bill in the Ohio House to toughen penalties for "torturing, tormenting, or cruelly or unlawfully punishing" that as it now stands, can let a violator get by with as little as a $10 fine.

"You can get a tougher punishment for stealing a car or even a loaf of bread," Camera said of the existing law.

"It's so out of date," he said, "that it still requires that fines paid by violators of the torture statutes be turned over to the Humane Society to prevent cruelty to animals."

Sections of law covering torture were included in the recent revision of Ohio's Criminal Code and do provide tougher penalties, but those sections do not take effect until Jan. 1, 1974. Camera said he has constituents who want the state to act sooner.

He noted a Lorain case in which a stepfather received a light sentence —

The code revision reclassifies the offenses, but provides for a $2,500 fine and a maximum of five years for the most serious—fourth degree felony.

Camera said child abuse and cruelty are "a serious problem throughout Ohio." And he said "tougher penalties may not be the answer. Maybe our prosecutors need to do a better job. But they have problems, too. Many times, people won't report what they know. They don't like to turn in a neighbor for fear of recriminations."

The Lorain Democrat said he would like to hear from more prosecutors about problems they might be having.

"If they are hamstrung by the present laws, we'd like to know about it," he said. "But that's how we'll solve the problem — in the prosecutor's office. That's where it has to start."

POW Tells Of Hanoi Photograph

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP) — Returned prisoner of war David Rehmann remembers the day Hanoi took his photograph for a propaganda demonstration in 1966.

"They told me the people of Hanoi were seething with anger —that if I didn't do exactly as I was told, I would be torn apart by the mob," he says.

Rehmann, a Navy pilot who is 30 but looks older, had been shot down for only 24 hours when the North Vietnamese took his photograph to show to the world a man they branded a "war criminal."

The photograph was reproduced on thousands of posters.

It shows Rehmann's face badly burned from the explosion of his jet fighter and his right arm bandaged and in a sling. He recalls that his eyes showed suffering and he had lost "more blood than I care to remember."

But he says he stood as erectly as he could, with a determined look on his face.

"I was not in very good shape. As a matter of fact, I was almost babbling," he said. "But I wanted the world to see what the North Vietnamese were trying to do—how they were trying to use me."

"It is not a scene I like to remember, but I think I got the point across," he says. He still suffers some disability in his right arm.

Rehmann, from Lancaster in Los Angeles County, recalled the episode Sunday on a visit to Garden Grove to see two brothers and an aunt.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Warhorse Can't Leave The Battlefield

DEAR ABBY: I have a boss who is more than ready for retirement. Nobody knows how old he is, but he's been with this company for nearly 40 years.

About four months ago he announced that he would retire on a certain date. He kept saying, "Well, 120 days before I leave, 110 days, 90 days, etc."

We co-workers planned a farewell dinner for him, and I collected the money for his retirement gift.

The morning of the farewell dinner he told us he changed his mind. He is not leaving!

We decided to go through with the dinner and give him the gift anyway. Nobody knows how much longer he will be here.

Have you ever heard of anything so crazy? And what can we do about it?

STEAMED

DEAR STEAMED: What's so crazy about a man changing his mind? When he retires, just say, "Goodbye."

DEAR ABBY: Over a year ago I had some serious emotional problems, and because of my bad behavior my wife left me. Then I did something right for a change. I went to a psychologist. She saw me three times a week, which helped me tremendously. Now I am seeing her only once a week. My psychologist is a single woman, about 40 years old. She is a very understanding person. My problem now is that I am stuck on her!

I would like to see her outside her office. Don't get me wrong. She never did anything to encourage my feelings for her. Should I tell her how I feel about her? I want to, but what if she gets mad at me? Then she wouldn't even see me in her office and I couldn't stand that. Please tell me what to do.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Tell your psychologist how you feel. She'll know how to handle it, and she'll help you deal with your feelings. That's what you're paying her for.

DEAR ABBY: I play piano in a piano bar club. Many customers request special songs, and to show their appreciation they offer to buy me a drink. I don't drink on the job, so I simply say, "No thanks, I never drink while I'm working." They smile and that's the end of it.

Abby, if they'd give me the money instead of the drinks I would be very, very happy, but how does one convey this idea to the customers without coming across as a "money-hungry" musician? If they are willing to buy me a drink, shouldn't they be just as willing to part with the price of the drink?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Find a piggy bank in the shape of a kitten and decorate it with the following message, "I'm not thirsty-but you may feed the kitty." Set it on the piano, but don't play. "The best things in life are free."

DEAR READERS: I think this is worth noting:

"Every gun that is made, every warship launched, every rocket fired signifies in the final sense, a theft from those who hunger and are not fed, those who are cold and are not clothed. This world in arms is not spending money alone. It is spending the sweat of its laborers, the genius of its scientists, the hopes of its children. . . This is not a way of life at all in any true sense. Under the clouds of war, it is humanity hanging on a cross of iron."

Do you know who said that? No, not George McGovern. It was Dwight D. Eisenhower, on April 16, 1953, before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. And it's as true now as it was then.

OBES Cuts Still Slated By Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bureau of Employment Services still plans to lay off approximately 200 employees, despite a court order last week that ordered the OBES to reinstate 200 employees it had laid off earlier.

Stan Wyman, OBES public information director, said Sunday the OBES would be forced to furlough about 200 employees and that the number may be increased because of financial losses incurred by the bureau in the court ruling.

Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge Fred Shoemaker ordered the jobs of 200 reinstated and that they be awarded back pay for the nine days they were laid off.

Shoemaker's order, however, did not prohibit OBES from making future layoffs. It only said such action must be made in compliance with state civil service statutes.

"What people must realize is we still must make cutbacks in the bureau to make up for our loss of federal revenues," Wyman said. "The longer we keep more people on the payroll than we can afford, the further we go in debt, and the more cutbacks we have to make."

A state Senate hearing on the firings has been scheduled for Tuesday.

Tougher Child Abuse Laws Urged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio lawmaker wants to change outdated statutes against torture and child abuse that "must have been written back when people thought nothing of knocking a child's head off with a club."

Rep. J. Leonard Camera, D-53 Lorain, has introduced a bill in the Ohio House to toughen penalties for "torturing, tormenting, or cruelly or unlawfully punishing" that as it now stands, can let a violator get by with as little as a $10 fine.

"You can get a tougher punishment for stealing a car or even a loaf of bread," Camera said of the existing law.

"It's so out of date," he said, "that it still requires that fines paid by violators of the torture statutes are turned over to the Humane Society to prevent cruelty to animals."

Sections of law covering torture were included in the recent revision of Ohio's Criminal Code and do provide tougher penalties, but those sections do not take effect until Jan. 1, 1974. Camera said he has constituents who want the state to act sooner.

He noted a Lorain case in which a stepfather received a light sentence —

"six months, I think" — after his child was fatally beaten.

His bill raises the minimum fine for torture from $10 to $200 and the jail sentence from six months to a year. In cases of physical injury or for second offenses, the fine could be $1,000 (up from $200), and the sentence could be from 1 to 5 years.

The code revision reclassifies the offenses, but provides for a $2,500 fine and a maximum of five years for the most serious—fourth degree felony.

Camera said child abuse and cruelty are "a serious problem throughout Ohio." And he said "tougher penalties may not be the answer. Maybe our prosecutors need to do a better job. But they have problems, too. Many times, people won't report what they know. They don't like to turn in a neighbor for fear of recriminations."

The Lorain Democrat said he would like to hear from more prosecutors about problems they might be having.

Humphrey Says Kissinger's Best

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says that if he had been elected president in 1968 he would have named Henry A. Kissinger his foreign policy adviser.

Talking with reporters Sunday after White House worship services, the Minnesota Democrat called President Nixon's national security adviser "a professional ... an extraordinary man."

In response to questions, Humphrey, said he has changed his mind and now supports Nixon's plan to give postwar aid to North Vietnam. He said he changed his view because of Nixon's assurances that such aid would not be deducted from the domestic side of the federal budget.

Mrs. Cecil Ward, president, welcomed members and guests, when the Scioto Chapel Women's Society met at the Robtown Parish Hall on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Downs was appointed to conduct a memorial service at the next meeting. The Mother-Daughter banquet will be held at the Good Shepherd U.M. Church Center, Circleville, date and time to be announced. It was voted to make a contribution to the Jeff Beatty Fund.

For the program Mrs. Gary Fortner presented piano selections of love songs, including "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing," "Be My Love" and

"Love Makes The World Go 'Round". Special speaker, Oscar Burchfield, was introduced by Mrs. Brooks, program director. Mr. Burchfield is executive director of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Department and has been associated with the department since November. Moving from Toronto, Ohio, Mr. Burchfield served as mayor of Toronto, as did his father and grandfather. For sometime he was a missionary in Peru, where he helped establish schools for the Peruvian Indians. He has also served as a juvenile probation officer.

He explained in detail the type of service offered by the County Child Welfare Department. He stressed the fact that orphanages and children's homes and institutions with jail-like atmosphere are almost a thing of the past. The receiving type of home is now a place for temporary abode and from there the child is transferred to a foster home.

The Child Welfare operates as a county organization and has a board of seven and a staff of 10 social workers skilled in welfare services.

Most neglected children are from broken homes. Responsible for their condition are immature parents with psychological hangups, who take out their hostility on their children.

Many cases are brought to the attention of the staff by telephone tips and anonymous notes. All cases are investigated. Authority to remove a child from its parent's home must be secured from the court.

Mr. Burchfield said many more foster homes are needed. A certified foster home is licensed. There are 40 certified homes in Pickaway county and 241 Pickaway County children are under social guidance. The Pickaway County Child Welfare Department is also involved in cases of international adoption, which is a very lengthy process.

The department also offers special services to unmarried parents, mother or father. The girl is given pre-natal care and guidance after leaving the hospital and a foster home is found for the baby.

Many changes are taking place today. Plans are being studied for a county wide day-care center. In conclusion, Mr. Burchfield, stated that the church and community can be of real service by reporting to the Department cases of child neglect. Child abuse prevails not only someplace that we read about, but exists right in Pickaway County. A question and answer period followed.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses in charge. The tables were decorated with ferns and greenery in accordance with St. Patrick's Day theme. Prayer was given by the Rev. John Currens. The door prize was won by Mrs. Robert Drummond. Mrs. Almada Prince was welcomed by the Society as a new member. Guests were Mr. Burchfield, Rev. and Mrs. John Currens, Mrs. Gene Siniff, Mrs. Gary Fortner and daughter Penny, and Mrs. Prince.

Local DECA Mentioned For Honor

Circleville's Junior and Senior DECA organizations earned one honorable mention at the Ohio DECA Leadership Conference this past weekend in Columbus, although they were defeated in their bids for top honors.

The one award received by Circleville was earned by the senior organization for its Chapter of the Year Contest of the current school year. Both clubs received plaques for their contribution to the State Distributive Education display at the 1972 Ohio State Fair.

None of the schools in District 17 of the DECA organization, other than Circleville, received any awards. In district competition held earlier, Circleville swept all other member schools with 17 students ranking in first, second or third places.

Student members of Distributive Education Clubs of America from high school all over the state took part in the conference, which is held to give students an opportunity to gain recognition for outstanding achievement and develop leadership abilities through participation in various activities and compete with other leaders within the state.

The students were accompanied to the conference by Fred Wagner, Becky McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. William Rosengarten and Mrs. Mary A. Greenwood.

POW Gives 'Thank You' Reception

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — In a gracious, low-keyed manner, former Vietnam prisoner of war Col. Ronald J. Byrne Jr., said "thank you" Sunday to approximately 100 of the people who had been wearing bracelets bearing his name.

The gratitude was shown during a two-hour informal reception at the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base officers club that Col. and Mrs. Byrne hosted.

Byrne, from Peru, Ind., said the reason for the reception was to "thank everyone for their prayers and their letters. This just seemed the best way to say thank you."

The Air Force veteran appeared in no hurry, talking at length to those who came through the reception line. His wife, Joanne, and his four sons stood close by.

In a brief opening statement, Byrne spoke of his and other POWs' reactions upon learning of the bracelet program some eight months ago.

"There are so many (bracelet wearers) that it's beyond what any of us could have expected," he said. "We knew that there was activity going on to help us, but we didn't know how much."

Byrne said he asked press coverage of the reception because "there are lots of people who couldn't come to this party, and I would like for them to know how much my family and I appreciate everything."

Byrne was captured by the North Vietnamese after his plane was struck by hostile fire while on a combat mission. He was a POW for seven years.

Sale Of Fred Mushrooms Must Await Recall Tests

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says that Fred Mushrooms Products of South Lebanon, Ohio, may be allowed to resell thousands of cans of recalled mushrooms if the firm can prove they are not tainted.

William R. Clark, deputy regional administrator for the FDA in Cincinnati said the total recall was ordered after the deterioration was discovered in a second batch of tests.

"The trouble is he (owner Corwin Fred) didn't have the quality control records to back up his assertions. This means scientific tests of the whole production system must be made."

FDA inspectors and representatives from the American Canning Industry were at the plant, 35 miles northeast of Cincinnati, all day Monday.

Fred said he believe the problem was involved in one canning operation. The FDA, however, said they wanted to check the operation out all week to be sure.

Fred said the canning industry experts might be able to determine whether the thousands of returning cans "are okay." He expected all the returns in by next week, he said.

But Fred said he was pessimistic about the future of his 43-year-old firm. He said he has already begun selling mushrooms in the fresh produce market and expects "we'll have to lay off a lot of people." The firm employs 180.

"Now I think the general public will be afraid of me," he said, complaining that nationwide publicity has created an aversion to his products.

Clark said the FDA was "trying to get this company back into business as soon as possible." He speculated that the ban might be lifted in about a week if tests on present canning procedures prove negative.

Attorney General Aide Denies Allegations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — James A. Laurenson, chief of the Consumer Frauds and Crime Section of the Attorney General's office, said Monday, that his office has not neglected 25 cases turned over to it by the Commerce Department's Consumer Protection Division.

Laurenson defended his office against charges it has not moved fast enough to check the alleged violations of consumer protection laws.

At a news conference, Laurenson referred to charges by Joyce Kady, Ohio Public Interest Action Program (OPIAG) director.

Mrs. Kady, in a statement, had said her group was not satisfied with the way the section has investigated the 25 complaints.

Laurenson said that of the 25 cases, charges have been filed in seven and four others were returned because they were based on a charge by a single complainant or were against a so-called middleman.

Two of the cases are under "in house" investigation, he added. Of the Environment Chiefs Said In Conflict

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two members of the Ohio Environmental Board of Review are in violation of federal anti-pollution conflict of interest regulations because of their previous employment.

Dr. Ira L. Whitman, director of the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and a board member, said a change in the regulations would be sought and possible legal action is planned if that move is unsuccessful.

Both Dr. Whitman and Dr. Stanley Weissman worked for firms that held water pollution permits two years prior to their serving on the board.

The Federal Water Pollution Act which prohibits employees of a firm holding permits from serving for two years on boards that grants them has been broadened by federal regulations to involve both Whitman and Weissman.

Whitman was formerly employed by Battelle Institute, which held a state discharge permit for its research facility at West Jefferson.

Weissman worked as a research scientist with Mound Laboratory, an Atomic Energy Commission-owned facility that also held a state discharge permit.

SALT Sessions Open In Geneva

GENEVA (AP) — United States and Soviet negotiators resumed today the second phase of their supersecret strategic arms limitation talks — SALT II — after a recess of almost three months.

Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir S. Semenov conferred in the Soviet mission to fix the time of the first plenary session, due later this week. The meeting lasted an hour and 55 minutes. The next meeting was scheduled for Tuesday at the U.S. mission.

Delegation sources explained the meeting discussed merely organizational questions and did not go into substance. Johnson is a newcomer to the talks, succeeding Gerard C. Smith who successfully negotiated SALT I and also headed the U.S. delegation for preliminary SALT II session which ended Dec. 21.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

After extended discussion this week the House passed a bill to allocate two cents from the state's seven-cent motor vehicle fuel tax and put it into a railway grade crossing improvement fund to finance installation of safety devices at hazardous crossings.

The Ohio Department of Transportation has investigated all of the 9,700 crossings around the state and has established a priority list of which crossings represent extremely hazardous conditions. Applying two cents from the fuel tax will fund these needed crossings and as soon as federal funds are available, they should start to supplement the cost.

This bill will allow the state to act now, rather than waiting for the federal government, to start installing flashing lights, warning bells or gates at dangerous crossing. Presently, there are 2,880 crossings where protective devices have been installed. Our objective with the bill is the remaining crossings only designated with crossbuck railroad signs.

Wooster Woman Killed

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — Ruth Sheppard, 50, of Wooster was killed Monday. She was struck by a car while crossing Ohio 226 near her home in rural Wayne County.

The Red Cross will contact a man in service when there is an emergency in his family or when a new baby is born.

This legislation now goes on to the Senate for consideration.

Legislation that will extend workmen's compensation coverage to thousands of additional Ohio employees and greatly increase potential maximum benefits for workmen injured on the job was introduced in the House Thursday.

The bill is intended to bring Ohio law into conformity with the recommendations of the National Commission on State Workmen's Compensation laws by July 1, of this year.

The bill extends mandatory coverage requirements to all employers with even one employee. It present, only employers with three or more employees are included under mandatory coverage. Household workers who earn more than $50 per quarter in single households would also be covered.

Weekly benefits, now tied to the national cost of living as a result of a bill passed two years ago, would be tied instead to 67 per cent of the statewide average weekly wage. Under existing conditions, the maximum benefit would increase from $86.52 to approximately $110. After July, 1975, the payments would be based on 80 per cent of the worker's spendable weekly earnings.

The Ohio House again is attempting to tackle the tough issue of tax aid to non-public schools. Wednesday the House adopted a resolution asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to deal with the problem.

In recent years the General Assembly has been frustrated in its attempts to subsidize non-public education. In 1969 their attempt to supplement teacher's salaries was ruled unconstitutional. In 1971 direct grants to parents for tuition was also found unconstitutional. Last year the General Assembly approved tax credits for parents only to see this approach also ruled unconstitutional in federal court, but now being appealed in the U.S. Supreme Court.

The 110th General Assembly last week established a Legislative Information Office in the Capitol Building in Columbus. The office is intended to implement one of the major recommendations of the Ohio Citizens Committee to permit more communication of legislative activities to the public.

Citizens across Ohio can call 800-282-0253 toll free in regard to House and Senate agendas, committee schedules, current status of legislation and legislator's addresses, telephone numbers, and districts.

I believe this direct line service will serve as a two-way street. Not only will it provide a greater awareness of the functions of the General Assembly, but it will also give the legislature a better understanding of public interest in the issues being considered.

Prospective Sailors Must Beat Odds

WASHINGTON (AP) — To get into the Navy these days, a recruit has to beat the odds.

The Navy recently began requiring its recruiters to use something called "Odds For Effectiveness" (OFE) tables to help judge whether a young man would make a good sailor.

Passing score is at least 69 on a scale of 100, computed from such factors as the candidate's school background, mental-test results, and police record, if any.

This approach is part of the Navy's efforts to upgrade the quality of men in its ranks, and has been spurred by a series of shipboard disorders and by congressional allegations that the Navy has been lax in discipline.

Meanwhile, the Navy has extended indefinitely a special program under which it already has weeded out nearly 3,500 troublemakers and "marginal or nonproductive performers."

The "Odds For Effectiveness" scoring is based on six years of research with about 11,000 enlistees.

Hamilton Teachers

Offered New Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Hamilton Teachers Association was offered a new package of proposals involving work conditions by the Hamilton Board of Education Monday. The move is aimed at settling the teacher's grievances.

The proposals concern class size, working days and nonteaching duties for certified personnel, according to Superintendent Roger Hoffman. He said the association is expected to respond to the proposals at the negotiating session Thursday.

"The OFE scores are the chances in 100 that an applicant, if enlisted, will render effective service—that is, complete enlistment and be recommended for re-enlistment," the Navy said.

The formula for calculating a man's score weighs (1) the number of school years he has finished, (2) any suspensions or expulsions from school, (3) his marks in the Navy's standard mental test, and (4) any nontraffic arrests.

For example, if a man reaches 155 out of a possible 220 on his entrance exam, has graduated from high school, was never suspended or expelled from class and had a clean police record, he would be graded as having 90 chances in 100 of becoming an effective sailor.

But if this man, with his entrance-test score of 155, had been suspended from school twice and arrested once,

Study Launched Against Cancer

DETROIT (AP) — The American Cancer Society has given a $48,000 research grant to a Detroit doctor studying why the human body rejects transplants but not malignancies such as cancer.

Dr. James J. Lightbody Jr. of Children's Hospital and Wayne State University said early research indicates the body tries to attack malignancies but is stopped by an internal "blocking factor." This factor apparently does not work with transplants, thus allowing the body to reject them, he said.

Lightbody is trying to discover the "blocking factor," which he theorizes is located outside the blood system and can be turned off and on as needed.

his OFE score would be 71, barely passing. And if he had been arrested twice, his score would be reduced to a below-acceptable 63.

Navy officials said a man who scores lower than the minimum 69 can still be accepted into the Navy, but only if the recruiter's commanding officer or some higher authority grants a written waiver after a reevaluation.

While the OFE scoring is a critical hurdle, it is not the only one. A would-be sailor also must pass the personal assessment of the recruiter who considers what the Navy refers to as the "whole man."

And after the recruit reaches boot camp, the Navy puts him through additional screening, testing and a possible check for security clearances.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

After extended discussion this week the House passed a bill to allocate two cents from the state's seven-cent motor vehicle fuel tax and put it into a railway grade crossing improvement fund to finance installation of safety devices at hazardous crossings.

The Ohio Department of Transportation has investigated all of the 9,700 crossings around the state and has established a priority list of which crossings represent extremely hazardous conditions. Applying two cents from the fuel tax will fund these needed crossings and as soon as federal funds are available, they should start to supplement the cost.

This bill will allow the state to act now, rather than waiting for the federal government, to start installing flashing lights, warning bells or gates at dangerous crossing. Presently, there are 2,880 crossings where protective devices have been installed. Our objective with the bill is the remaining crossings only designated with crossbuck railroad signs.

Wooster Woman Killed

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — Ruth Sheppard, 50, of Wooster was killed Monday. She was struck by a car while crossing Ohio 226 near her home in rural Wayne County.

The Red Cross will contact a man in service when there is an emergency in his family or when a new baby is born.

This legislation now goes on to the Senate for consideration.

Legislation that will extend workmen's compensation coverage to thousands of additional Ohio employees and greatly increase potential maximum benefits for workmen injured on the job was introduced in the House Thursday.

The bill is intended to bring Ohio law into conformity with the recommendations of the National Commission on State Workmen's Compensation laws by July 1, of this year.

The bill extends mandatory coverage requirements to all employers with even one employee. It present, only employers with three or more employees are included under mandatory coverage. Household workers who earn more than $50 per quarter in single households would also be covered.

Weekly benefits, now tied to the national cost of living as a result of a bill passed two years ago, would be tied instead to 67 per cent of the statewide average weekly wage. Under existing conditions, the maximum benefit would increase from $86.52 to approximately $110. After July, 1975, the payments would be based on 80 per cent of the worker's spendable weekly earnings.

Freed CIA Agent Visits Mother

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — "You'll probably be a celebrity now—don't let it go to your head," Mary V. Downey told her son during a hospital room reunion after he returned from 20 years in a Communist Chinese prison cell.

John T. Downey, 42, received those words of advice Monday night after he rushed to the bedside of his critically ill mother.

The CIA agent was flown halfway around the world in less than 24 hours after he stepped to freedom over Hong Kong's Lu Wo Bridge Sunday.

Mrs. Downey, a 75-year-old retired schoolteacher, suffered a stroke Wednesday and remained unconscious until Sunday.

Downey smiled as he was greeted by hundreds of friends and wellwishers, first at Hartford's Bradley International Airport and then as he arrived by car at New Britain General Hospital.

Mrs. Downey, because of her precarious physical condition, had not been told until his arrival of her son's release from Peking's Grass Basket Prison, where she had visited him five times since 1958.

Downey's younger brother, William, who accompanied Downey from the Philippines, said his mother's pulse rate showed "a little bleep" when she was told John had been freed and was in the hospital.

"He took mother's hand and kissed her and spoke to her," William Downey, a New York City attorney, told newsmen.

"She seemed to come more wide awake when he talked to her."

He said his brother was "as close to being unchanged as anyone could be after 20 years anywhere."

"He indicated his great relief in being a free man. I wouldn't rate him at all as bitter" because of his imprisonment.

He said his brother told him he had not been abused in prison —

"Interrogated, yes—tortured, no."

John Downey and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., were captured in November 1952 after their plane was shot down over Manchuria. Fecteau was released in 1971, at about the same time Downey's life term was commuted to five more years.

But the Chinese announced they would release Downey immediately after President Nixon advised them that Mrs. Downey had been stricken.

After visiting with his mother for several minutes, Downey was admitted to the hospital for a medical examination.

It was not known how long he would remain there, but Dr. Bliss B. Clark, executive director of the hospital, said

Mid-Decade Census Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau is ready to push ahead in 1975 with the nation's first mid-decade sample survey of the population if Congress votes the money to pay for it.

Census officials said plans call for surveying about one million households, or about 1.5 per cent of the population, to find out how the nation changed socially and economically since the 1970 census.

The Nixon administration's fiscal 1974 budget seeks $6 million to get the process going, but the total cost of the sample survey is estimated at $45 million. The 1970 census cost $220 million.

If it comes off as expected, it will be a much-needed updating of economic and social statistics used by governments at all levels, businesses, labor unions and other segments of the population, Census officials said.

But it would be different from a full-scale census. The bureau said an estimated 15,000 representatives would seek indepth social and economic information from each family questioned. During a complete census, most people fill out a short form seeking only basic data.

In addition, said Deputy Director Robert Hagan, "We would not contemplate making it a mandatory sample survey." During a full population count, persons who refuse to provide the information to the bureau risk prosecution.

Hungarian Defects

SAIGON (AP) — A Hungarian defected to Australia today and was granted asylum, a spokesman for the Australian Embassy announced.

The Embassy refused to identify the man further, but other sources said he was a member of the Hungarian delegation to the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision which is overseeing the Vietnam cease-fire.

A spokesman for the Australian Embassy reported: "A Hungarian national has asked the embassy for assistance to emigrate to Australia and this has been arranged." Asked if the defector was still in Saigon, the spokesman said, "I can't add anything."

The International Commission is made up of Poland, Hungary, Canada and Indonesia.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR MARCH—These maps reflect the outlook for precipitation and for temperature for March as forecast by the National Weather Service.

WALK TO FREEDOM — Former CIA agent John Downey, wearing blue Chinese suit and cap, walks along passageway on the Hong Kong-Chinese border. Downey had been imprisoned in China for more than 20 years on charges of espionage. With him is Col. Corwin Boake, U.S. Army liaison officer of the U.S. consulate in Hong Kong.

White Sox Confident Of Victory

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, led by baseball's highest salaried player in Dick Allen, are confident this will be their year in the American League West.

After being in first place briefly last season, the White Sox finished second, 5½ games behind the World Champion Oakland A's.

"That's why we'll win this year," says 1972 Manager of the Year Chuck Tanner. "We've been down that path."

Tanner has other reasons for optimism—the return of Bill Melton, 1971 American League home run champion who missed most of last season with a back injury, and the acquisition of switch-hitting center fielder Ken Henderson.

But power in the middle of the White Sox lineup, supported by the clutch batting of .308 hitter Carlos May, might prove insufficient.

Despite the return of workhorse 24-game-winner Wilbur Wood, the White Sox lack proven depth in the starting pitching rotation and the defense at second and shortstop must be shored up from last year.

The White Sox got Henderson from San Francisco in a trade which also brought pitcher Steve Stone in exchange for one of the Sox' three regular starters last year—15-game winner Tom Bradley.

Henderson, who was overshadowed on the Giants by Willie Mays and Bobby Bonds, hit 18 homers in the National League last season. He's already been awarded the center field starting job by Tanner and claims he can hit .300 with 25-to-30 home runs in a lineup with Allen and a healthy Melton.

The loss of Bradley, however, created a scramble to fill two other pitching spots in the White Sox starting corps. Knuckleball artist Wood was 24-17 last year while leading the league in innings pitched with 377.

Another starter is Stan Bahnsen, 21-16 last year, but Bahnsen had only five complete games in 43 appearances.

Other positions up for grabs are shortstop and second base.

Tanner is giving Eddie Leon, acquired from Cleveland, a shot at the shortstop job where Rich Morales and Luis Alvarado alternated weak bats with adequate gloves last year.

At second base, Tanner is taking a strong look at Jorge Orta, 22, who almost made the team last year straight out of the Mexican Leagues. Last year's regular at the position, Mike Andrews, slumped to .220 and his troubled arm turned easy double plays into doubtful ones.

Tanner expects Allen to earn his estimated $675,000 salary in a three-year contract with a repeat performance of last season when Allen's 38 home runs, 113 RBI and .308 average carried the White Sox and earned him MVP honors.

Behind the plate, Tanner is set to go most of the way with Ed Herrmann, platooned against right-handed pitchers last year. Tom Egan, who had a frustrating year in 1972, and Chuck Brinkman, rated a defensive standout, will spell him.

Flanking Henderson in the outfield will be May, who hit only 12 homers in 1972 but had 68 RBI. Pat Kelly, who stole 32 bases in the leadoff spot for the White Sox last year, probably will be platooned in right field with John Jeter.

Baseball Training Normal; Wacky Things Happening

HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Everything seems to be normal in baseball's spring training camps ... normally wacky, that is.

Item: The Boston Red Sox tried to sneak in a designated hitter for their exhibition game against Philadelphia but backed off when the Phillies, under orders from National League headquarters, protested.

Item: Veteran superstar Frank Robinson of the California Angels broke a toe while climbing into the radio-television booth and will be out for at least three weeks.

Item: Manager Leo Durocher pulled the Houston Astros out of a scheduled briefing with baseball negotiator Marvin Miller when the meeting interfered with batting practice.

When Boston Manager Eddie Kasko took his lineup card to the plate for Monday's game with the Phillies, the name of Orlando Cepeda appeared in the sixth batting position as the designated hitter.

"Uh, uh," said Philadelphia's Danny Ozark, citing a recent National League poll against the use of a designated hitter in interleague exhibition games.

With 2,000 fans looking on at the Red Sox' Winter Haven, Fla., park, Kasko put up a brief battle and then scratched Cepeda from the batting order.

Asked why he couldn't insist on using the designated hitter and letting the Phillies pull out of the game if they wanted, Kasko said: "If I had permission, I just might go ahead and do that. However, you can't very well do it at home with 2,000 fans in the stands. It's the principle of the thing. The fans come to see a game and it's up to us to give them one."

As it turned out, it was the Phillies who gave them a show. Nonroster rookie Mike Rogodzinski walloped a two-run homer and Deron Johnson and Mike Anderson also drove in two runs apiece as the Red Sox bowed 6-2.

Meanwhile, Robinson, who was scheduled to make his exhibition debut Tuesday, fractured the fourth toe on his left foot in a freak mishap. A California spokesman said he apparently knocked his foot against a railing while climbing a ladder into the broadcast booth at the Angels' training field at Palm Springs, Calif.

Bill Plummer Hopes For More Action

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Bill Plummer figures he's got one of the toughest jobs in baseball with the Cincinnati Reds.

"It's easy when you play. That's the fun of the game. But it's tough when you aren't playing, just sitting on the bench day after day," the 26-year-old Californian, who's job is merely playing behind superstar Johnny Bench.

The remarks came after the Cincinnati Reds had beaten the Kansas City Royals 9-1.

"When you play behind Johnny Bench, you don't play much. Most of your time is spent sitting in the dugout or warming up pitchers in the bullpen."

"My situation, so far as playing is concerned, isn't too hard to take because he's so good and can't be beaten out," Plummer said.

"John's not the best now, he's the best ever. I don't think any catcher ever will do the things he's done so quickly."

Still, Plummer would like to get the chance to play regularly.

"I want to prove myself, to work at my job. I know I'm expendable to the Reds and that's okay."

"If they were to get rid of me and send me to a place where I'd have a chance to play regularly, I wouldn't mind," he said.

Bucks Blast Suns, 126-95

MILWAUKEE (AP) — With Oscar Robertson healthy at last and playing again like the superstar of yesteryear, the Milwaukee Bucks just might be a team of destiny, after all.

Jerry Colangelo, for one, thinks it's possible.

And even Bucks' Coach Larry Costello, whose starting five has been at full strength for just a handful of games all season, is talking of overtaking Los Angeles and compiling the best record in the National Basketball Association's Western Conference.

"I was ready to concede this game at the end of the third quarter," Colangelo said after the Bucks had demolished his Phoenix Suns 126-95 in the only game in the NBA or American Basketball Association Monday night.

"The Bucks really have momentum going at the right possible time, just prior to the playoffs," Colangelo said. "It's a matter of a club getting confidence in itself, and that sort of thing builds. Larry deserves a great deal of credit with all the injuries his team has had."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the fifth time, UCLA has been voted the No. 1 college basketball team in the land in The Associated Press' final poll and for the fifth time John Wooden says:
"It's very pleasing, but you know the real national championship will be decided on the court."
Wooden says polls are more meaningful in football, where teams don't usually play each other. But his State Announces
Sites For Boat
Registrations
The Department of Natural Resources has announced locations throughout the state where 1973 boat and outboard motor registrations can be obtained.
All watercraft operating in Ohio
waters must have an Ohio identification number displayed on each side of the bow of the watercraft.
Registration papers must be available on board at all times when the watercraft is in use.
The watercraft registration number is different than outboard motor numbers which are issued to each owner at the time of registration with a tag bearing that number. The tag showing the outboard motor number must be on the motor in a place where it can easily be seen.
Annual fees for watercraft and outboard motor registration are:
Outboard hull, rowboat, canoe, barge or raft, $1; sail boat, $3; inboard with motor under 100 horsepower, $7.50;
inboard with motor 100 horsepower and above, $10; outboard motor, $3 and duplicate registration, $1. Licensing agents receive an additional 35-cent fee for each registration issued.
Boaters are reminded that 1972
registrations expired March 1, and are urged to obtain their 1973 registration early to avoid the summer rush.
Any questions concerning watercraft regulations in Ohio should be directed to the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Watercraft,
1350 Holly Avenue, Columbus, Ohio,
43212.

Bruins begin quest for their ninth NCAA title this Thursday in the Far Western Regional tourney.

Wooden admitted that this was "perhaps a more difficult season on me, maybe a little more trying because the streak was involved. We put more pressure on ourselves ... to avoid complacency."

Wooden said going through a regular season unbeaten is a tough task but he said going through the Pacific-8 campaign unbeaten eight different times is an equally rewarding accomplishment to any his teams have recorded.

Wooden acknowledged the marks of 71 straight victories and 32 straight NCAA tournament victories, but noted, "in our conference you play teams that are familiar with your style of play and you have to play half of them on the road."

He said that now, with the regular season over, "teams aren't going to be on a crusade to beat us. In the regular season, if someone had beaten us, they'd have celebrated as if they'd won the national championship. But it's sudden death for everybody now."

Everybody, that is, except North Carolina State, the nation's No. 2 team, which is ineligible for postseason play because of recruiting violations.

The Bruins, 26-0, weren't unanimous choice this year. Of the 32 voters, 28 went for the Bruins as the top team, and UCLA polled 632 votes by getting the other four votes for second place.

Unbeaten North Carolina State, 27-0, got three first place votes and 578 points with Long Beach State third, Providence fourth, Marquette fifth and Indiana sixth.

Southwest Louisiana's Ragin' Cajuns received the only other first-place vote, leaping from 14th place to seventh.

UCLA Again National Cage Champ

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the fifth time, UCLA has been voted the No. 1 college basketball team in the land in The Associated Press' final poll and for the fifth time John Wooden says: "It's very pleasing, but you know the real national championship will be decided on the court."

Wooden says polls are more meaningful in football, where teams don't usually play each other. But his

State Announces Sites For Boat Registrations

The Department of Natural Resources has announced locations throughout the state where 1973 boat and outboard motor registrations can be obtained.

All watercraft operating in Ohio waters must have an Ohio identification number displayed on each side of the bow of the watercraft. Registration papers must be available on board at all times when the watercraft is in use.

The watercraft registration number is different than outboard motor numbers which are issued to each owner at the time of registration with a tag bearing that number. The tag showing the outboard motor number must be on the motor in a place where it can easily be seen.

Annual fees for watercraft and outboard motor registration are: Outboard hull, rowboat, canoe, barge or raft, $1; sail boat, $3; inboard with motor under 100 horsepower, $7.50; inboard with motor 100 horsepower and above, $10; outboard motor, $3 and duplicate registration, $1. Licensing agents receive an additional 35-cent fee for each registration issued.

Boaters are reminded that 1972 registrations expired March 1, and are urged to obtain their 1973 registration early to avoid the summer rush.

Any questions concerning watercraft regulations in Ohio should be directed to the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Watercraft, 1350 Holly Avenue, Columbus, Ohio, 43212.

Registration agency locations in Pickaway County are: Kenneth Kingery, area manager, Division of Parks and Recreation A. W. Marion Lake, Route 5, Circleville, phone 474-3386. Hours: 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday; Thomas R. Elsea, Circleville Mobile Homes, 1265 N. Court St., Circleville, phone 474-5710. Hours: 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Bruins begin quest for their ninth NCAA title this Thursday in the Far Western Regional tourney.

Wooden admitted that this was "perhaps a more difficult season on me, maybe a little more trying because the streak was involved. We put more pressure on ourselves ... to avoid complacency."

Wooden said going through a regular season unbeaten is a tough task but he said going through the Pacific-8 campaign unbeaten eight different times is an equally rewarding accomplishment to any his teams have recorded.

Wooden acknowledged the marks of 71 straight victories and 32 straight NCAA tournament victories, but noted, "in our conference you play teams that are familiar with your style of play and you have to play half of them on the road."

He said that now, with the regular season over, "teams aren't going to be on a crusade to beat us. In the regular season, if someone had beaten us, they'd have celebrated as if they'd won the national championship. But it's sudden death for everybody now."

Everybody, that is, except North Carolina State, the nation's No. 2 team, which is ineligible for postseason play because of recruiting violations.

The Bruins, 26-0, weren't unanimous choice this year. Of the 32 voters, 28 went for the Bruins as the top team, and UCLA polled 632 votes by getting the other four votes for second place.

Unbeaten North Carolina State, 27-0, got three first place votes and 578 points with Long Beach State third, Providence fourth, Marquette fifth and Indiana sixth.

Southwest Louisiana's Ragin' Cajuns received the only other first-place vote, leaping from 14th place to seventh.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — A bit of broadcast history is being made this week on the CBS Television network's morning news show. It's presenting a five-part series that was produced by an affiliate station.

Nothing like this ever has been done before, according to spokesmen not only for CBS but NBC and ABC as well.

All three networks frequently use news reports from affiliates for their regular news shows when the story is particularly well-done or when the deadline is too close to send network news teams out on a major, fast-breaking story.

But it's always a single story, never a series on a given subject. That's an area network news department always have reserved for themselves.

The tradition-breaker appearing on CBS this week is grim in nature. It's a study of death — of those facing it and of the way doctors, nurses and family members react to it.

The series, in which Don Kladstrup is the reporter, was produced by WCCO-TV of Minneapolis, Minn.

"The series is almost a primer about several paths to death," says Richard Clark, producer of the hour-long CBS morning news show.

Four segments in the series each run five minutes. The last, scheduled to run Friday morning, runs for about 13 minutes and is the powerful part of the entire series, Clark says.

It deals with a 17-year-old former athlete who learns he has terminal cancer and how he and those around him face the fact he's dying and that there's no way to prevent it. Clark says it's an excellently done series.

How did it come to the attention of CBS?

"We got this series because our producer in Chicago, Larry Pomeroy, got wind that they were doing it and it was getting a lot of praise," Clark said. "So he went out and looked at it and we decided to use it."

Does the fact it's the first affiliate-produced series on a regular network news show signal any change in policy about the use of such series by CBS?

"Not at all," says Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News. He says the producers of both the CBS morning and evening news shows always have had the option of using affiliate news series.

WCCO's series is appearing on the more than 100 CBS affiliates that carry the network's morning news program. But ironically, it won't be showing on the station that produced it.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — A bit of broadcast history is being made this week on the CBS Television network's morning news show. It's presenting a five-part series that was produced by an affiliate station.

Nothing like this ever has been done before, according to spokesmen not only for CBS but NBC and ABC as well.

All three networks frequently use news reports from affiliates for their regular news shows when the story is particularly well-documented or when the deadline is too close to send network news teams out on a major, fast-breaking story.

But it's always a single story, never a series on a given subject. That's an area network news department always have reserved for themselves.

The tradition-breaker appearing on CBS this week is grim in nature. It's a study of death — of those facing it and of the way doctors, nurses and family members react to it.

The series, in which Don Kladstrup is the reporter, was produced by WCCO-TV of Minneapolis, Minn.

"The series is almost a primer about several paths to death," says Richard Clark, producer of the hour-long CBS morning news show.

Four segments in the series each run five minutes. The last, scheduled to run Friday morning, runs for about 13 minutes and is the powerful part of the entire series, Clark says.

It deals with a 17-year-old former athlete who learns he has terminal cancer and how he and those around him face the fact he's dying and that

In Prater Murder

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Paul E. Gilly, convicted of recruiting the men who killed United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter, met for several hours during the night with state officials prosecuting the trial of another defendant in the deaths.

There was no hint as to the nature of the conference, but earlier a source close to the prosecution told newsmen to be alert for "a surprise development" in the trial today.

On trial is William J. Prater, 53, of LaFollette, Tenn., one of seven persons arrested in the slayings. Prater is the third to stand trial. Gilly and one other have been convicted and sentenced to death, while three more have confessed and turned state's evidence.

The seventh, Albert E. Pass, 52, of Middlesboro, Ky., former secretary-treasurer of a UMW district straddling Kentucky and Tennessee, is to stand trial in June.

The overnight conference apparently began at 10:20 p.m., EST, when Gilly — handcuffed and clad in a dark suit — was ushered by a pair of plainclothes state troopers into a motel suite rented by the prosecution for the duration of Prater's trial.

Troopers stood guard outside the suite, and the conference continued into the small hours of the morning.

Though convicted of murder and sentenced to die in the electric chair, Gilly steadfastly has maintained his innocence in the killings. His appearance stirred surprise.

Gilly was implicated strongly in statements of the three defendants — among them Gilly's wife Annette and her father — who turned state's evidence.

Mrs. Gilly claimed that Paul, acting on instructions relayed via her father, Silous Huddleston, recruited the gunmen for the murders, tracked Yablonski for weeks and then accompanied the hired recruits the night the Yablonskis were slain.

Paul also met at least once with defendant Prater, Mrs. Gilly said.

Sheriff Radcliff Arrests Forger

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff arrested Elmer Elliot Hill, who listed his address as 1010 N. Court St., on forgery charges last night while Hill was watching city Police watch his car.

Hill, a parole violator, was being sought in connection with the passing of about $600 in forged checks in the county. He was charged with uttering and publishing a forged check at the A and P Supermarket.

Sheriff Radcliff said Hill's leased vehicle was spotted Monday night in a parking lot by Bingman's Drug Store. While police were watching the vehicle, Hill was standing in an alley by the Penny's Store.

The Advisory Council of the Pickaway County Health Department urged the Board of Health to try to cut down the township's share of operating funds, to push for passage of a county-wide tax levy and to send letters twice a year to advisory board members.

The recommendations were made Monday in the annual meeting of the advisory council and the health board. Advisory board members are chairmen of each township trustee board and the mayors of incorporated villages in Pickaway County.

Officers of the council, who serve one year terms, were all reelected. John Fissell is chairman, Noah List is vice chairman and Harold Hartley is secretary. County Health Board member Richard L. Christensen, Route 2, Ashville, was reelected to another five-year term on the board.

Purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the advisory council with health department problems. The health department noted that their office, which lacks funds for expansion, cannot match the growth of the rapidly expanding county.

In a release to all board members, Effie Davis, office manager for the health department, noted that "Pickaway county is one of the most rapid growing counties in the state of Ohio. Franklin county residents are moving over the line into Pickaway to purchase land and build homes. Industry has moved in and with it financial growth has come. New homes are being constructed all over the county. The health department is involved in all of this building."

"The health department should have been growing with the county. However, it is only in the past few years that the growth was recognized and an effort made to catch up with that growth. The catching up requires much planning for now and for the future. It also requires additional employees, housing, furniture, telephones, equipment and additional car and many more necessities. Commuter Train May End Runs

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Erie Lackawanna Railway Co. says it is spending "about $2.50 in order to obtain $1" and losing about $600 a day in running Ohio's last commuter train.

And that, the railroad says, is why it has asked Ohio's Public Utilities Commission to permit discontinuance of the weekday run from Youngstown to Cleveland and back.

If the commission says yes, "I'll just have to move," says Youngstown's W. E. Coleman, whose commuting makes his workday last 14 hours.

The public hearing on the request begins Wednesday.

Erie Lackawanna spokesmen say the train's three coaches, each with 62 seats, are 97 per cent empty after they pass the Cleveland suburb of Aurora, "and that's with 65 per cent of the trip ahead."

The nearly 200 paying passengers in 1970 have dwindled to about 100, the company says, plus about 50 "deadheads," company employees who ride free.

And typically there is only one regular paying passenger boarding in Youngstown for the 66-mile trip that begins at 5:50 a.m. and takes about two hours. That one is Coleman, who says an intracompany transfer by Republic Steel Corp. started his ride.

Some passengers say the decline stemmed from fare increases last May which they say ranged to as much as 120 per cent.

If the salt from the oceans and seas were removed and spread over the Earth's land surface, it would form a layer more than 500 feet high.

Jail Fire At Columbus Said Arson

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A fire, which sheriff's deputies said apparently was set, hospitalized two Franklin County Jail inmates and forced about 15 prisoners to be moved from the jail's third floor maximum security wing early today.

The fire started in a mattress in the cell of George R. Fisher, 23, of Columbus. Fisher was being held on five counts of arson.

Fisher and Charles Edward Butts, 19, also of Columbus, were hospitalized in good condition after being treated for smoke inhalation at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Deputies said they found Fisher tied by his shoelaces to his cell bars. Butts was in an adjoining cell.

The fire was discovered at 3:44 a.m. by Dep. Dennis Thomas, who was leaving the jail in his patrol car and heard shouts from prisoners on the third floor. Thomas said he looked up and saw smoke pouring from third floor windows of the recently-opened jail.

Deputies removed prisoners from the smoke-filled cellblock while Columbus police stood by to help maintain security.

The Columbus Fire Department extinguished the fire at 4:49 a.m.

No damages estimate was immediately available.

Jail Fire At Columbus Said Arson

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A fire, which sheriff's deputies said apparently was set, hospitalized two Franklin County Jail inmates and forced about 15 prisoners to be moved from the jail's third floor maximum security wing early today.

The fire started in a mattress in the cell of George R. Fisher, 23, of Columbus. Fisher was being held on five counts of arson.

Fisher and Charles Edward Butts, 19, also of Columbus, were hospitalized in good condition after being treated for smoke inhalation at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Deputies said they found Fisher tied by his shoelaces to his cell bars. Butts was in an adjoining cell.

The fire was discovered at 3:44 a.m. by Dep. Dennis Thomas, who was leaving the jail in his patrol car and heard shouts from prisoners on the third floor. Thomas said he looked up and saw smoke pouring from third floor windows of the recently-opened jail.

Deputies removed prisoners from the smoke-filled cellblock while Columbus police stood by to help maintain security.

The Columbus Fire Department extinguished the fire at 4:49 a.m.

No damages estimate was immediately available.
